DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-41 are allowed.

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Claims 1-4; prior art of record fails to disclose or suggest, inter alia, a power conversion circuit having a power transformer, four semiconductor switching elements, a split secondary winding on the power transformer, a first unidirectional current conducting device connected from one end of the split secondary winding to an inductor, a second unidirectional current conducting device connected from a second end of the split secondary winding to the inductor, the inductor and a connection to an interconnection between two halves of the split secondary winding being connected to an output of the power conversion circuit, an injection voltage source connected to the primary winding of the power transformer for applying an injection voltage to the primary winding in addition to an input voltage to the primary winding via the semiconductor switching elements.

Claims 5-25; prior art of record fails to disclose or suggest, inter alia, a power conversion circuit having an injection voltage source connected to apply a supplemental reverse bias voltage to a semiconductor unidirectional current conducting device to terminate forward conduction in the device and to deplete carriers in the device at times prior to each reverse biasing of the device by an alternating of the main primary current causing a reversal of voltage across an associated power transformer winding.

Claims 26-31; prior art of record fails to disclose or suggest, inter alia, a power conversion circuit having means for applying a first low reverse bias voltage to the semiconductor rectifying means to halt forward conduction and deplete carriers in the semiconductor rectifying means prior to each application to the semiconductor rectifying means of a reverse bias larger than the first low reverse bias voltage.

Claims 32-41; prior art of record fails to disclose or suggest, inter alia, a method of power conversion including switching a DC voltage to supply a power transformer primary and rectifying with at least a first semiconductor rectifier a transformer output from a secondary of the power transformer; the method comprising applying to the semiconductor rectifier a low reverse bias voltage to deplete at least one semiconductor junction of the semiconductor rectifier of carriers in advance of each application to the semiconductor rectifier of a high reverse biasing power transformer secondary voltage excursion.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. US 6,862,195 Jitaru discloses a soft transition converter; US 6,567,285 Cho et al disclose a switching power supply unit; US 5,877,951 Mweene discloses a power converter with a controlled full bridge; US 5,619,404 Zak discloses a
